Retired 15 years ago from playing since I was 8 I am 49 now and starting back playing next week so looking forward to it

Was considering retiring at the age of 40 after 31 years of playing...Not any more #EnglandNetball
#inspired

I'm thinking of doing a coaching course now. I miss playing so much. My 7 year old is totally inspired too and has been shooting goals all morning (whilst doing her own commentating)

I've played since primary school I'm now 48. Only breaks I've had are for pregnancy and when I was having treatment for breast cancer two years ago, getting back to netball was my focus. My daughter is 16 has been playing since she was 6 and now we play together!

77% of adults who paid attention to the netball at the Games agreed that the Roses are an inspiration to girls.

Based on the 351 adults in the sample who said they had 'heard that the England Roses had won the 2018 Commonwealth Games Netball Gold', 'watched netball from the 2018 Commonwealth Games on television or via other media' or 'who attended the 2018 Commonwealth Games and watched a netball match'; YouGov Plc (10-11th October 2018)

“Netball fever has well and truly swept the nation over the course of the last six months and England’s dramatic win continues to be talked about globally in the media.”

Joanna Adams, England Netball CEO

Reached over two million people across our social media channels
during the Commonwealth Games semi-final and final!

“It’s still very fresh in my memory even though it’s been six months since it happened. When I look at my gold medal it brings it all back and all of the memories. The squad is in a really exciting place right now.”

Helen Housby

“The response from fans has been absolutely amazing, they backed us through the whole Commonwealth Games and to know that your nation is behind you all the way is absolutely fantastic. It’s been a great run for us but we’ve still got so much to do until the World Cup next year and it’s about what we can do now to make ourselves better for that.”

Kadeen Corbin

“It was a rollercoaster when we came back from the UK but now our feet are firmly on the ground. It’s a really exciting time for netball, especially as we of course hosting the World Cup in Liverpool in 2019, so our focus is firmly on that. It’s really nice to be champions but our focus now is to get that gold at the World Cup.”

Jodie Gibson

Over 70,000 tickets have been sold for the Netball World Cup 2019 in Liverpool

Over 1,000 applications received for a variety of netball-specific and other event roles during NWC2019 volunteer recruitment

“The high demand for tickets for next year’s World Cup shows how netball’s profile is growing in the UK, as well as globally. It’s an extremely exciting time to be involved in the sport and especially to be hosting it here in England, after the Gold Coast success. We’re really looking forward to welcoming the world’s elite netball players to the Echo Arena in Liverpool, our world-class venue.”

Lindsay Impett, Netball World Cup 2019 Event Director
